This workshop calls together preservationists, city planners, community leaders, academics and students to focus on new approaches to urban historic preservation and their relevance to urban conservation in New Jersey, New York, and the entire mid-Atlantic region.

Central to our discussion will be the implementation of UNESCO’s Recommendation on the Historic Urban Landscape (HUL, 2011). This workshop is co-sponsored by the Rutgers University Program in Cultural Heritage and Preservation Studies (CHAPS) and the Penn Cultural Heritage Center.

PROGRAM

10:00 – 10:05  Welcome
10:35 – 10:55  Conversation with Audience
11:00 – 11:20  Susan Gruel and Fred Heyer, HULs from the Bottom Up: What Does it Mean for Neighborhoods and Towns?
11:20 – 11:50  Conversation with Audience
12:00 – 1:00  Lunch
1:05 – 1:25  Matthew Hill, From the Delaware Riverfront to Washington Square Park: The Historic Urban Landscape Approach in Philadelphia
1:25 – 1:55  Conversation with Audience
2:00 – 2:20  Gabrielle Esperdy, Entropic Snapshots of the Garden State: Defining Historic Urban Landscapes in the City of New Jersey
2:20 – 2:50  Conversation with Audience
3:00 – 4:00  Panel Discussion moderated by Adi Sela Wiener
4:00 – 5:00  Reception

The workshop will be held in the Lower Dodge Gallery of the Zimmerli Art Museum, 71 Hamilton Street, New Brunswick, NJ 08901. The workshop is free, but pre-registration is required. Contact Geralyn Colvil at colvill@rci.rutgers.edu.